From Publishers Weekly

An account of two murders, this is also a penetrating look into the mind and heart of an alcoholic. According to Provost (Across the Border), Dee Casteel, a waitress at the International House of Pancakes in the Florida Redlands, drank as many as three bottles of Scotch a day. She fell in love with Allen Bryant, live-in lover of the restaurant's owner, Art Venecia, and Bryant used her to help arrange Venecia's murder. After it was carried out, Bryant became concerned that Venecia's 84-year-old mother would "smell a rat"; the two hit men who had murdered the son were hired to eliminate her as well. Afraid that Bryant would kill her, Casteel dictated a confession to her daughter in the presence of a witness; soon afterward the case was cracked. The four collaborators are now awaiting execution. Provost has done a fine job of depicting an unlikely group of killers. Photos not seen by PW.

From Library Journal

Why did International House of Pancakes (IHOP) waitress Dee Casteel, considered by all who knew her the nicest person one would hope to meet, conspire with IHOP manager Allen Bryant to murder owner (and Bryant's lover) Art Venecia? Provost's contention is that Casteel's alcoholism ruled her life, clouding her judgment, making her unable to understand the implication of her actions. Casteel now sits on death row in a Florida prison. This book is difficult to categorize; although a true crime story, it really is a description of alcohol addiction and its impact on both the life of the alcoholic as well as the people in her life. Recommended for libraries with large true crime collections. Previewed in Prepub Alert, LJ 9/1/89-- Sandra K. Lindheimer, Middlesex Law Lib., Cambridge, Mass.

Punk Rock connection

By A Customer

This book mentions the singer for the now infamous punk rock band, Against All Authority. I have spoken to him about this and he tells some chilling tales about jumping their BMX bikes over the open grave that smelled of death, and trying to figure out what the puddle of stinky fluid was that leaked out all over the floor underneath where the bodies were stored. He and Dee's sons hid on top of the shed while they watched the hit men steal things. He spent many nights in the house because the boys were afraid to be in there alone. Apparently there was more to the story but at the time the book was written the hitmen were out of jail and most of the people that new things were afraid they would be next.

Without Mercy, a witness' recall, never too late....

By R. Reid Welch

I am in the Without Mercy book, mentioned...I have not read the book since 1989, as it brings all the horrors back to reality. I was a close friend to Art Venecia. I have written about this story, as it relates in a way, to the assault upon myself with intent to murder, by Miami City Commissioner, Marc "D" Sarnoff. Google, see the Cycling forums thread? Here, I just wrote, and Gary Provost is now dead; all are dead, but for me and some killers of Art Venecia. I will recall Art some other time in more detail. He was popular, generous, smart and too trusting.

The late author, Gary Provost, came to this house and interviewed me in the Study for over an hour. I told him everything I knew of the character of Art Venecia.

George Frietas, a mutual friend, self-employed accountant, who kept books for Art, myself, and others in our gay social circle, talked to Art a few days before, just before Art's murder.

Art, who was having severe problems with his drug-addict, young lover, said to George, "He's crazy, he says he will kill me." "Get out of there, Art", begged timid old George.

"Nah, I can handle him. He's just a talker." I asked George to testify, or at least, talk to the author years later. Even then, years after the murder, George was shaking, "Are you kidding, Reid? No way. I don't want to die."

You understand, that recounting just above, it is not in the book, because George did not want that to be known.

Now, though, everyone important is dead and cannot be harmed, except for you, Marc...you rat fink killer. I hate bullies.

I helped to put Art's killers into prison and I will now do the same for you.

I will now try to recall something that has been mostly beaten from my shattered mind, beaten by physical assault and mental terrors. I wanted to witness for Art, I loved him very much, I say that a lot, I know, but Art was very good to me, and he was a great musician and affable personality. I attended one day of the public trial. The four defendants were tried together. I got to see them all, I was simply there in the public seating area, I did not have to testify. The medical examiner came into the courtroom.

She carried a brown paper grocery bag. It was not opened. The judge did not want to see the content.

It was the skull of my friend, Art Venecia.

Re: What happened to Dee Casteel?

By Peter Nixon

Re: Dee D. Casteel: See extract from Florida Dept of Corrections website.

DC# 161033 WF, born 6/5/38, was sentenced in Dade County on 9/16/87 for the 1983 murder of an 84 year old woman. The woman had begun asking about her missing son, who Casteel and a fellow employee had ordered killed a month before. Casteel paid two mechanics to kill the woman. Her death sentence was vacated on 12/6/90. She was resentenced to life on 12/19/91 and died at Broward Correctional Institution on October 7, 2002.

I have not read this book but am definitely going to. I was a used car dealer in South Miami Dade from 1978-1998, and sold a car to this lady around the time of this crime. She seemed perfectly normal to me at the time.
